SEE PROBE INVESTIGATORS ILLNESS

Congressional Investigators to Determine on Nov. 10 if Judge's Condition Will Permit Hearing.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—The subcommittee of the House Committee on the Judiciary, appointed to investigate charges against Federal Judge Emory Speer, of Georgia, today decided to meet November 10, as planned, and receive a report on the condition of Judge Speer, who is seriously ill, according to his counsel, R. H. Callaway.

Judge Speer's condition then will determine the future course of the committee.

Huff to Have Many Witnesses.

MAISON, Nov. 1.—When the special subcommittee of the House Judiciary Committee comes to Macon to pursue its probe of the official record of Judge Emory Speer, there will be a host of witnesses in waiting as the result largely of the personal efforts of Colonel W. A. Huff. The subcommittee is due to come here Monday, November 10.

During the last month Colonel Huff, who made the first charges against Judge Speer, has been to all parts of Georgia and has arranged for more than a score of men and women to appear before the committee. In addition to those witnesses, there will be those regularly summoned by the Government, and who were interviewed during the summer by Special Examiner R. C. Lewis, of the Department of Justice.

A letter to Congressmen Burton and Hughes, Colonel Huff stated: "When I testify before the committee I want Judge Speer to be where he can see and hear me, and where he testifies I want to be present so that I can look in his eyes as I hear what he has to say for himself."

Although the investigation is undertaken by the Government, without anyone appearing as prosecutor, there is no doubt that Colonel Huff's original accusations laid the foundation for the probe. These accusations were embodied in the report. As the result of sending these letters, Colonel Huff has found guilty of contempt of court, and is now awaiting the passing of sentence. Judge Speer has expressed to close friends and relatives his determination to appear for himself at the hearings of the committee, and he has told his son-in-law, A. H. Heyward, that he would accept this policy, even if he had to come to Macon on a cot. However, it is probable that the investigation he will receive the assistance of Judge A. C. Cobb, of Atlanta; Judge Enoch Callaway, of Augusta; and Orville A. Park, of Macon, all of whom are his close personal friends.

There is a growing impression in Macon that Judge Speer will never be able to preside over his court, or to appear before his investigating committee. It is believed that his health has been wrecked by the fact that the Judge has other charges added to his own. It is taken as a substantial foundation for this widespread belief. However, his relatives are encouraged by his daily improvement, and express the utmost confidence in his ultimate recovery.

Howard Says New Money Law Would Forestall Panics

Congressman William Schley Howard, explaining in Atlanta the principle of the currency bill now under consideration by Congress, declared that with the bill a law panic would be impossible. "As every business man knows," he said, "90 per cent of the country's daily commerce is done without the exchange of a dollar in money. The trouble with the present law is that it is not elastic. Say a man has a business with a capital of $50,000 and his credit is $50,000. When his credit and his capital have been converted into time paper the man is absolutely in the hands of his banker as regards a further extension of his business. "Now, under the new currency bill this time paper, if declared good collateral could demand a loan. In this way business men could force credit to expand in tight times. It is simple, secure and flexible, and with it in operation no panic could come."

'BLACK BOOK' PUBLISHED BY SLEUTH

Stenographer's Record of Conversation of Convicted Murphy Man Accuses 'Gang.'

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Detective William J. Burns today made public the contents, in part, of the "black book" containing the dictaphone record of the interview at the New York Penitentiary.

The German and Russian Minister arrived here late yesterday. The ministerial plans are under way as indicated by the fact that they conferred with General Munn, the military commander, before they left Mr. Lind of their arrival.

The French envoy is expected here tonight, and it is probable that the Norwegian Minister also will come. Thus far there has been no indication that Sir Lionel Curzon, the British Minister, will come.

Atlanta Convict Tied to Walls of Prison 10 Hours

Freed Convict Makes This Charge and Avers Moyer Only Tries to Keep Up Appearances.

Further allegations of shameful conditions at the Atlanta Federal Penitentiary were made Saturday night by a convict just released from that institution which he never had expected to leave alive.

The details of dark-age barbarities, denied by the prison officials as often as they have been alleged by guards and ex-convicts, including Julian J. Moyer, were repeated.

The story related the charges of incompetency on the part of Warden Moyer. It was one which purported to lay bare the sham and pretense of the prison administration.

RESIST U. S. INVASION GUNS ARE FUELING BURGLES

THREE AGAIN ESCAPES BULLETS

Police Declare Same Robber Who Shot Dr. Hawley Tried
Second Time.

Three Monday were hunting for the during burglar who engaged in a duel with Dr. Edgar Hawley, well-known physician, and is believed to be the same man who later attempted to enter the home of Miss Sarah Hawley, next-door neighbor of the physician.

Miss Howell, who lives at No. 42 Hawley street, was awakened by the sound of someone trying to open the doors of her bedroom window. She opened the door and saw a man pointing a revolver at her. She retreated to her room and locked the door. The burglar then fled.

Miss Howell sent two bullets in the direction of the window. They did not hit the burglar, who had just opened the blinds as the young woman opened hers. But Miss Howell was disturbed for the rest of the night.
The burglar returned to the window and fired again. The bullets were heard to lodge in the window sill.

The police, while declaring that it was the same burglar who had returned the home of Dr. Hawley, said that the burglar was not the same man who had been arrested at the Hawley home.

The physician and the burglar exchanged shots, and Dr. Hawley resulted in a flesh wound. The burglar dropped his gun and the two men engaged in a desperate hand-to-hand fight. The burglar finally got away.

"Bullets are not serious," said Dr. Hawley Monday, "and I am thankful that I shall not be even forced to remedy injuries. I am sure that I could identify the intruder if I should ever see him again. He was powerfully built and of swarthy complexion.
He was not a negro."

Police Troop Burglar As He Enters Pharmacy

Robertson Roberts and Lowe, in Edgewood avenue, about 4 o'clock
Monday morning, found a burglar trying to gain an entrance through the front of the drug store of Wood & Harts, at 285 Edgewood avenue.
The burglar tried to escape, though he was pursued and shot at by the officers.

An investigation later revealed that the burglar had removed the putty from around one of the glass panes in the front door and was ready to remove the glass and enter when the policemen came upon him.

$20,000 Depot Laid in Ashes by Militants

Several Cable to The Atlanta Georgian.
LONDON, Nov. 2.—One of the most serious fires which have resulted from the threats of the militantists to destroy all the railway stations in England occurred at Swinton Hill, a suburb of London, today, with $20,000 damage. The fire broke upon the tracks and held up traffic.

Due to the outrages the Duke of Bedford had closed Hadrian Hall in Swinton, Hadrian Hall, one of the most relics of Norman architecture in the north of England, the property of Lord Vernon and John Manners.

12 Drowned in River Because She Said 'No'

BIRMINGHAM, Nov. 2.—John Smith died the odd question, and a discharge said "No" to jump from the Chicago River.

"Hear, I am committing suicide," he said.

Four policemen fell into the river to rescue Smith. Five others drowned, and two others were drowned rescuing Smith and the four policemen.

Justices Combine In Fight to Block Municipal Court

An attempt to prevent the establishment of Atlanta's new Municipal Court will be made by the justices of the peace in the city, whose courts will be abolished by the new system.

A fight will be made on the constitutionality of the act. The Municipal Court is the result of a long campaign against the fees charged in justice courts, which in many instances were branded excessive. The justice courts are dependent entirely upon the fees from their offices.

Boll Weevil Ravages Put Under a Curb

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—The ravages of the Mexican boll weevil, which annually causes losses of millions to cotton crops have been successfully combated by modern science, according to an announcement made by President Pinley, of the Southern Railway.

"Farmers in the territory infested," said President Pinley, "have been able to raise profitable crops despite the pest, through modern farming methods. This is of the utmost importance to farmers of the South. It means that cotton will remain the staple crop in Southern territory, and that prosperity will flourish undimmed."

Bottle of Liquor Leads to Killing

MACON, Nov. 2.—Thomas D. Smith, of Jackson, Ga., was shot and killed Monday morning by Henry Brown, young man from Monticello,
Ga., in the Bibb County Jail today.

The young men engaged in a fight about a bottle of whiskey, and Wooten pulled his knife and fired. He claims that Smith was striking him with a pair of knuckles at the time. Smith was shot three times, twice in the chest and once in the leg. He is now in a hospital, and is in a critical condition.

Capital City Club Superintendent Dies

W. V. DePrado died at 2:30 p.m.
Monday morning at a private infirmary, succumbing to a sudden attack of illness which came upon him Saturday.

DePrado was superintendent of the Capital City Country Club and was formerly superintendent at the old clubhouse, succeeding his father in that position. He recently returned to Atlanta after a two-years' visit to Belgium and Italy. He is survived by his wife. Funeral arrangements have not yet been announced.

Probing Death of 6 By Shell Explosion

SAVANNAH, Nov. 2.—A rigid investigation is being conducted today into the explosion of a six-inch shell which killed six men and wounded others at the naval yard here.

The navy's fort to the place. Results, in fourteen miles. The men were at work on a dock when the shell exploded in their midst and tore a large hole in the warehouse. It is assumed that the explosion was caused by a defective shell.

Edward Morris, Rich Meat Packer, Is Dead

CHICAGO, Nov. 2.—Edward Morris, partner of Morris & Co., and one of the wealthiest meat packers in the world, died today at his home on Boulevard early today.

weeks.

Until an hour before his death Mr.
Morris was conscious. All the members of the family were at the bedside when he died.

Colorado Strikers Make Attack Early Darkness and Are Repulsed

LOUISVILLE, JUNCTION, COLO.,
Nov. 2.—Striking coal miners in Southern Colorado defied the State troops early today in the most serious outbreak since the arrival of the troops, and one man was killed and several were wounded.

Under darkness a band of armed strikers fired upon the troops guarding a mine. The soldiers returned the fire, killing one of the miners. More than 100 shots were fired. The battle waged fiercely for a while and the miners finally were repulsed.
Great excitement prevails.

Another Killed in Indianapolis Strike

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., Nov. 2.—
The most serious trouble since the inauguration of the street car strike was anticipated by the police today when the Traction Company attempted to renew its street car scheduled with strikerbreakers imported from Chicago.

All night a calm prevailed due to the efforts of labor leaders and police officials who succeeded in dispersing the crowds following the death of Isaac Pleister, a strike-breaker from Philadelphia. This was the second fatality incidental to the strike demonstrations.

Although the Traction Company would make no definite statement this morning as to the time the attempt would be made to start cars, it was said a renewal of the scheduled would occur.

Captain Crane says the department is ready to detail four policemen to each car. He predicts trouble as soon as an attempt is made to move the cars.

Pleister's death followed a rush by a portion of the early night crowd at the Louisiana street car barn. Who fired the shot that killed Pleister is in dispute. The bullets came from the interior of the barn, where the strikerbreakers are housed. A squad of police rushed between the barns and the crowd. Pleister died shortly after reaching the hospital.

Five cars were run into the car barns by traction employees under police protection early this morning.
Two cars left deserted and wrecked at Maryland street and Capitol Avenue were set on fire last night. The seats were placed on the floor and a match applied. The cars were saved from destruction by firemen.

It is reported that one sergeant and nine policemen tried to turn in their badges rather than do strike duty on cars, but they were assigned to the reserve squad.

Secretaries' School Will Begin Friday

The school for secretaries, the first institute of its kind ever organized, will open in Atlanta Friday night. It is to be conducted by the Chamber of Commerce. Three sessions will be held, on the opening date and two on Saturday.

Free agents, getting connections, office system and other subjects secretaries should be acquainted with will be discussed. More than twenty speakers have been "booked."

Paris Women Wear Mannish Hats Now

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian.
PARIS, Nov. 2.—Hats of all shapes, slightly stiffened, and black hats modeled on the lines of a man's hat are the latest additions to feminine fashions here.

The high hat is distinguished from the man's model by a single feather standing close against the crown.

Catoosa Stops Fight On Government Road

DALTON, Nov. 2.—An injunction sought to restrain Catoosa County from collecting the special tax levied to finance that county's part of a Government highway from Chattanooga to Atlanta will be withdrawn. The injunction was refused in Superior Court, but was sent to the Supreme Court on a writ of error. The court will not, however, be called upon to decide it.

This leaves only the obstacle to the highway in Gordon County, and citizens of that county are making a strong fight to carry a bond election for $100,000, which they believe this month.

U. S. Seal on Wilson Wedding Invitations

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—The White House wedding invitations, recently ready to be issued, are engraved with the crest of the United States in gold at the top.

The invitations, about four and a half inches square, is inclosed in an envelope bearing the crest on the flap, and the inside envelope has
"The White House" in gold in the corner.

Included with the invitation is a tiny engraved card bearing the name of the person invited, and this is the only credential by which guests will be admitted.

Duke Lost Throne and Released Miss Elkins

ROME, Nov. 2.—Commander Lati-form, aide-de-camp to the Duke of the Abruzzi, who was present when the Duke received the news of Katherine Elkins' marriage to Mr.
Hill, said the Duke released Miss Elkins from her engagement only a few months ago.

The Duke expected to be elected King of Albania, which would have enabled him to marry Miss Elkins.
Owing to the rivalry between Italy and Austria over the Albanian question, a secret agreement was made prohibiting the election of either an Austrian or an Italian prince.

Queens Quarrel Over Candles on Altar

LONDON, Nov. 2.—A few months ago Queen Alexandra presented two massive candlesticks to Sandringham Church, which were placed on the altar and candles by her own hand.
Recently, Queen Mary ordered the candlesticks removed.

The queen refused until he had received an order from Alexandra, who under King Edward's will, is the patroness for life of the church.

The matter was referred to the Archbishop of Canterbury and a compromise was arranged. The candles are removed, but the sticks remain.

Decaturites to Hold Meeting on Charter

A mass meeting will be held at the Decatur courthouse Monday night at which the new charter will be discussed.

The amendments to the city charter were adopted by the recent Legislature, but opposition has been shown by the Mayor and City Council on the ground that it takes the control of the police department and City Chief of Construction out of the hands of the Mayor and Council, in that it provides for their election by the people, and also fixes their salaries.

Mrs. Wilson Buying Books for Bridal Fair

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—Mrs.
Woodrow Wilson visited a local bookstore and purchased a number of standard books, presumably for the new home of Mrs. Joseph Wilson, who will be married to Francis B. Sayre of New York, November 25.

A set of Shakespeare in pocket volume, bound in old morocco and dark red leather, set of poets and dramatic works in the French were among the books.

FLORAL PAGEANT TO OPEN BIG AUTO SHOW

musical program for Auto Show submitted by John Philip Sousa.

Decorators and exhibitors began this invasion of the Auditorium Monday for the purpose of putting the building in readiness for the great automobile show which will open tomorrow at its splendid new Saturday afternoon.

All the week will be spent in carrying out the elaborate scheme of decorations that has been devised by the committee in charge. The exhibitors meanwhile will install in the booths and spaces allotted cars representing the latest work in automobile manufacture.

Atlanta is said by the promoters of the exhibit, will be the first important city of the North or South to see the magnificent array of 1914 models that are being put forth by the American and foreign manufacturers.

John Philip Sousa's noted band will be at the show from its beginning, and will open the exhibit next Saturday afternoon. Sousa himself will award the prizes for the drivers of the most prettily decorated cars in the automobile parade the forenoon of

for the gorgeous pageant.

The parade will form at Mitchell

MACON IN FIGHT TO CLOSE ALL SALOONS

MACON, Nov. 2.—Before night every saloon in Macon will be infested by injunction proceedings brought by the Law Enforcement League. The petitions for injunction, for the temporary restraining order granted by Judge Mathews, of the Bibb Superior Court, are in the possession of Sheriff Hicks, and are now being served.

The league has instituted 24 new actions, which completes the list of saloons. Twelve of the petitions ask to have saloon keepers who were infringed several weeks ago punished for contempt on the ground that they have sold whisky since the injunctions were issued against them. If this charge is proven, the saloon men will go to jail, as Judge Mathews said some time ago that he would not impose any more fines in such cases.

Attorney Magan for the league states that he has evidence of whisky sales against all but two saloons, and those two have been enjoined for selling beer which is illegal in this county.

While they were being transferred from the car in which they came to a White stock car, one of the men shooting to kill the ferocious animal.
More than one hundred shots were fired before the chase ended, and one of the stray bullets hit and killed George Beattie, a watchman. Some of the animals were shot down and killed, others were trapped and taken back to the stock yards, but several are still loose in the city, and the entire police force is searching for them.

TROOPS ARE MASSSED IN CAPITAL

United States Will Have to Inter-

Power, is General Belief.

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian.
MEXICO CITY, Nov. 2.—The Mexican Government expects American troops to invade this country within a few weeks, and is making plans for a desperate defense of the Capital.

Hasty efforts are being made to increase the revenues and all troops that can be withdrawn from isolated sections are being brought here.

Among the well informed there is no doubt that the United States Government will have to intervene in Mexico to drive General Huerta from power. He is seeking a large foreign loan, and President Madero, who declared to-day that all indications pointed to success in the negotiations, Money is needed to pay the soldiers being gathered here. The army is Huerta's one hope.

The Government is meeting considerable disaster in its military operations. Jerez, an important town in Zacatecas, has been captured by the rebels in a bloody battle, in which more than 1,000 men fell, according to dispatches received early to-day.

marching on the city of Zacatecas, which is defended only by 500 federals. In Zacatecas thousands of refugees from Fresnillo, which the rebels occupied when the federals retreated.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—"What the big is placed upon a city, one's pleasure is interrupted and stagnant immortality must be expected," said Prescott Gleason, a prominent chairman of New York and Washington.

"The recent order in New York, which closes reputable 'largo' places drives the patrons to disreputable places," said he.

U.S. CRUISER MENACES VERA CRUZ NET OUT FOR SPEEDERS AS AUTO CRASHES BOY

TACOMA'S BIG GUNS TRAINED ON CITY

Port Officials Demand Explanation
When U. S. Vessel Suddenly Steams Near Wharf.

U. S. Ready for Immediate War

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—The United States today, after six months of secret work, is ready for an immediate war and at a moment's notice can arm and equip 500,000 men for battle with any first-class power.

This is the first time in history that this country ever has been on a war footing.

The plans call for increasing the regular army to its maximum limit; the mustering into regular service of the entire militia throughout the United States and the raising of the remainder of the army of 500,000 men from the rank and file of citizens.

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian.

VERA CRUZ, Nov. 2.—The United States cruiser Tacoma took up a commanding position in the harbor today and Mexican officials are wildly excited as a result.

The Tacoma now lies two hundred feet from the wharf with her guns trained on the city, which she is in a position to shell if orders for such action were given.

In explanation of the Tacoma's action has been demanded by the port officials.

Previously the Tacoma had lain outside the harbor. On her way in today her propeller was fouled with a submerged cable near the entrance to the harbor.

When the cable was cleared away the vessel swung around in front of the Mexican cruiser Vera Cruz and took up a position between that vessel and the shore.

Massing Troops to Resist Invasion.

Among the well informed there is no doubt that the United States Government will have to intervene in Mexico to drive General Huerta from power.

The aim of the rebels apparently is to capture the city.

'MUM' WEDDING CLUB IS FORMED AT COX COLLEGE

Chrysanthemum to be nuptial flower of College Park students in new club.

Miss Dorothy Trammell Organizes Club to Have Members Raise Own Nuptial Flowers.

Gracious goodness sakes alive! Just listen, all you seekers after the new and the unusual. There is something new under the sun, blue society to the contrary notwithstanding!

Its habitat is, or will be, Cox College. Its originator is Miss Dorothy Trammell, one of the most beautiful and popular of Cox College girls, who lives in College Park.

IT—you always spell it with capital I—has a very definite purpose in view. It is to have a "mum" wedding club, and will have faded early into the limbo.

For the members of Miss Trammell's club are going to out-Jessie Miss Wilson, and "mum" weddings promise to become as common in Atlanta as at least in College Park, as pretty girls in the College Park.

The development of the idea was already simple for an active mind. She determined to devote some of her energy to telling people that "mums" are the most beautiful of flowers and she determined also that her fellow-students should aid in the dissemination of knowledge.

The club is to be known simply as the Cox College Chrysanthemum Club, and there are only two rules that the members must obey, but they tell the whole story. They are these:

Rule 1. Every member must pledge herself to have a "mum" wedding when the happy time arrives.

Rule 2. Every member must pledge herself to plant, tend and raise the "mums" that are to be used at her wedding.

Miss Wilson furnishes idea.

Miss Trammell is known as one of the most active students at the

Paris Women Wear Mannish Hats Now

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian.

The high hat is distinguished from the man's model by a single feather standing close against the crown.

Wilson Firm Against Central Bank Plan

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—President Wilson told callers today his position is unchanged in respect to all the fundamental features of the Glass-Steagall currency bill.

He will not accept the proposition of establishing four regional reserve banks instead of twelve, but is willing to compromise so far as the new number of banks is concerned. The central bank idea meets his firm opposition.

BOY CRUSHED BY AUTO IN STREET.

Brought to Hospital Dangerously Injured by Unknown Driver of Motor Car.

The net was spread again for auto speeders Monday when John Easley, No. 43 Milla street, a 10-year-old boy, was crushed at Peachtree and Ivy streets.

The lad's parents are unaware of the tragic accident that has befallen him, and he lies at the point of death in St. Joseph's infirmary.

He was brought there a few minutes before 1 o'clock in an automobile which dashed up to the door and dashed away again as soon as the unconscious form was deposited on a cot in the hospital.

Driver Unknown.

The lead nurse said that the driver of the car gave no explanation of the manner in which the accident occurred, but hurried away before any questions could be asked.

The police learned, however, that the boy was run down at Peachtree and Ivy streets in front of the Imperial Hotel, a thoroughfare which has become a favorite speedway for the automobilists in spite of the danger at this point.

Orders at once were issued by Chief Beavers for a thorough investigation of the accident. He instructed the patrolmen to renew their war on speeders in every section of the city, particularly at the points where the peril is increased to pedestrians by the amount of traffic.

Identify a Mystery.

The boy did not recover consciousness after he was brought to the hospital. He was bleeding from concussion and cuts, and it was thought he was hurt internally.

Detectives are seeking to find the owner of the car that ran down the boy. Several witnesses of the accident have been interrogated, and it is believed that the identity of the man in the automobile will be discovered before nightfall.

The great number of accidents that have resulted from the carelessness of speed maniacs has aroused the police department and prosecutions will be brought against every violator of the traffic ordinance.

"A rigid enforcement of the law will have a salutary effect on these speeders," said Chief Beavers. "I am impressed by the way that Chicago is dealing with its speed fiends. Two of them who ran down and killed their victims, I notice, were charged with murder and were unable to get a new trial after they were convicted."

The evidence showed that they were intoxicated and were driving recklessly. I don't know whether or not this was too severe, but I do know that the rigid enforcement of our laws will speedily put a stop to this practice."

Banker's Auto Is Wrecked as Driver Goes on Joy Ride

A badly wrecked automobile on Tenth street, near Markham, furnished a mystery for the police-solver's group this morning.

The car with its rear wheels demolished and the back crushed in, but with the lights still burning as though the driver and occupants had hastily abandoned it.

The number of the car was 16733 Georgia. This corresponded to the license taken out by T. J. Peoples, cashier of the American National Bank. He partially solved the mystery when he was called by the detectives. He said that the car had been taken out of the garage the night before by his negro chauffeur without permission and that it presumably had been used for joy riding.

He said that the chauffeur had called up a short time before and told of a collision with a street car, which, he said, he would explain later.

Justices Combine In Fight to Block Municipal Court

An attempt to prevent the establishment of Atlanta's new Municipal Court will be made by the justices of the peace in the city, whose courts will be abolished by the new system.

A fight will be made on the constitutionality of the act. The Municipal Court is the result of a long campaign against the fees charged in justice courts, which in many instances were branded excessive.

The justices are dependent entirely upon the fees from their offices.

The fight on the new court is expected to be made this week. The names of the judges nominated by the Superior Court judges of Atlanta Saturday will be sent to Governor Staton today, and he is expected to approve them at once.

271 in Tower, Most At Any One Time in Mangum's Regime

Sheriff Mangum reported Monday that the Tower population is at the high mark of his five years' administration.

The number of inmates Monday was 271. The high mark came last Friday, with 282 prisoners.

If the 271 in the Tower Monday, 241 were State and County, 27 were United States and three were foreign prisoners. Thirty-five were released last Saturday, part of them to work on the public roads, others under bond and one to be taken to the hospital.

On the Mangum in the last three years has handled in and out of the jail 12,915 prisoners, an average of 4,305 a year.

Edward Morris, Rich Meat Packer, Is Dead

Mr. Morris had been ill for several months.

New Appeals Court Of Georgia Organizes

The Georgia Court of Appeals, with Judge Ross sitting for the first time as a member, was organized this afternoon in the Capitol.

Judge Hiram R. Russell took his new position as Chief Justice, but was required to take no additional oath. His position is purely honorary, as his position is in the same office as the chief justice, but he is different from the chief justice.

He presides over the deliberations of the court, however.

The court starts off with a clean desk, and will be able to push rapidly the business before it.

O'Neal to Name New Senator, Say Friends

MOBILE, Ala., Nov. 2.—Governor O'Neal has decided again to appoint a successor to the late United States Senator Johnston and will make public the name of his choice in the next fortnight, according to statements of close political friends.

This decision was brought about by the withdrawal by Congressman Clayton, who had been appointed, of his claim to the seat.

GUN TOTING DECLARED ATLANTA MENACE

New Justice Tells Body It Must Not Spare Liquor Law Violators.

Judge Ben Hill, in his first official act as a member of the Superior Court bench, Monday opened a campaign against illegal traffic in intoxicants, with special reference to liquor clubs which may be violating the prohibition laws.

Changing his first Grand Jury he urged the most careful inquiry into the conditions under which the liquor clubs are operating, and if any were found to be disregarding the law in any way to indict the men operating them.

"There are rumors that some of the liquor clubs are not complying with the law," said Judge Hill. "They may or may not be true, but it is your duty as the highest body in the county to make a most careful investigation. The man who is deliberately violating the law which rules that whiskey must not be sold should be severely dealt with. He is in a liquor club or a public or private place. No matter what your personal opinion may be regarding the sale of intoxicants, you are to act as the law directs."

THE SHIPBY AUTO, DYING

ACCUSE OF RECKLESS DRIVING

Youth Tells of Accident in Which Lad Was Dangerously Hurt This Afternoon.

Charged with reckless driving, Robert Caldwell, son of J. H. Caldwell, well-known merchant, was freed on bond Monday afternoon after the owner of the automobile in which he had run down and crushed with his motor car John E. Hilly, the 18-year-old boy taken to St. Joseph's hospital earlier in the afternoon. The latest report was that the boy was still unconscious and that his recovery was very doubtful.

Caldwell, who is 21 years old, said that he was driving on Peachtree street, accompanied by a young woman, when a car in front of him suddenly was turned into the curb and ran past the car, and before he had time to stop or turn struck the boy, who evidently had nearly been run down by the preceding car.

The little fellow ran right in front of my car, said Caldwell. The driver of the car that hit him was a man, who I saw in the hospital. He was badly hurt. I had no time to stop or turn. I was not going very fast, but a car right behind me picked up the boy and took him to the hospital.

That car was driven by D. A. Peterson, of No. 285 East North avenue. As soon as Caldwell found out what the boy was, he sought out his brother who was at school and was taking him to his home No. 4141 Milledge street, to notify the mother of the injured boy. He met the mother, who had heard of the accident, and took her to the hospital.

Held in $500 Bond.

He went out to consult his father, who returned with him to the police station.

A charge of reckless driving was made against Caldwell, and he was released on a bond of $500, signed by his father, who is a merchant on Gordon street. The hearing was set for 8:30 o'clock Tuesday morning in the Recorder's Court.

The boy did not recover consciousness after he was brought to the hospital. He was bleeding from bruises and cuts, and it was thought he was killed internally.

The great number of accidents that have resulted from the carelessness of speed maniacs has aroused the police department, and prosecutions will be brought against every violator of the traffic ordinance.

A rigid enforcement of the law will have a salutary effect on these offenders, said Chief Weaver. "I am surprised by the way that Chicago is dealing with its speed fiends. Two of them got run down and killed only victims. I police, were charged with murder and were unable to get a new trial after they were convicted."

The evidence showed that they were intoxicated and were driving recklessly. I don't know whether or not this was too much for them, but I think that the rigid enforcement of the law will speedily put a stop to this practice.

WILSON SCORED FOR SUNDAY TRAVEL

Dr. Holderby Declares President Set Bad Example on His Trip to Mobile.

There was a good deal of discussion and some difference of opinion Sunday among the congregation of the Moore Memorial Church concerning the sermon Sunday morning by Dr. A. H. Holderby, in which he criticized President Wilson for traveling on Sunday to keep an engagement in Mobile.

Dr. Holderby asserted that the president had made a mistake of the head rather than of the heart, and was exhibiting the action as a brand of a high tribute to the moral law and uprightness of a President.

He drew a conclusion from his sermon, "The Making of Manhood," that neither the nation nor the church of the United States was right with God. The church was in setting a right example to the people, he said, and the people were lax in following such example as was set, except in a wrong direction.

Danger to Nation Seen. Dr. Holderby declared a danger to the nation, and in a strong sermon at the Central Presbyterian Church, before the largest congregation assembled there in months, he criticized the "weaving of the nation" of wonderful pattern, but with threads that were weak.

The whole cloth, therefore, must be torn, Dr. Holderby concluded, "and the individual member of society be held up to a high standard of honesty and responsibility. The individual is destined to fail, and the nation to go down in ruin."

A very large congregation at St. Paul's Methodist Church Sunday heard Dr. R. E. Fraser speak in the morning on "The Heretic Spirit" and the evening on "Burning of the Witches." The church was filled to capacity.

Wheeler as Example. Dr. Fraser praised General Wheeler as a citizen, lawyer, statesman, patriot, soldier, and above all, Christian—an example that all may follow with profit, as one of the highest types of true and noble gentlemen.

Dr. Fraser also mentioned the fact that Wheeler was a member of the 22nd Infantry, and the number of his soldiers who were killed at the battle of Little Bighorn.

SOCIETY DIVIDED ON TELEPHONE CURFEW

Mrs. Price-Smith's Crusade on Evening Talks Discussed by Atlanta Clubwomen.

This and society women of Atlanta are discussing actively the proposed curfew against the use of the telephone by women during the evening hours, as outlined by Mrs. W. Price-Smith, a prominent member of the Atlanta Clubwomen's association in Atlanta.

Part of the tangle of pros and cons of the matter, as advanced by various members of the association, was discussed at the next meeting of the Atlanta Clubwomen's Club, provided that one will refrain from using the telephone after 6 p. m. in order that they may devote their evenings to their husbands and families.

The Husband's Agree. The husbands concerned are heartily in favor of the project, according to reports obtained Monday.

"My wife has stood so much at the telephone that she has contracted a nervous prostration," said one.

"The women concerned, however, are not so unanimous."

"It can not be done," said Mrs. John P. Smith, who is a member of the club. "It is not a matter that can not be looked upon as the evening hours. I have been married for many years and I have never during the day become so tired as I do at night."

ROME, Nov. 2.—Commander L. L. Duke, former aide-de-camp to the Duke of the Abruzzi, who was present when the Duke received the news of Katherine Elkins' marriage to Mr. Pitt, said the Duke released Miss Elkins from her engagement only a few months ago.

Empress Eugenie Is Slowly Fading Away

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian. PARIS, Nov. 2.—The gravest fears are entertained here that the health, physical and mental, of the Empress Eugenie is breaking up.

DECEMBER 14 WORK DAY FOR ORPHANS IN HAPEVILLE HOME

Group of tots enjoying play hour at orphanage.

Workers Urged to Donate to Upkeep of Deserving Little Georgia Children.

There's going to be a "Work Day" December 14 for the little chaps out at the Georgia Baptist Orphan's Home at Hapeville.

You know about the "Work Day." They've had such things before. Just a plan for giving a great many people the chance to turn over a day's work for the benefit of some youngsters not so lucky as the well-dod, well-fed, well-schooled boys and girls who belong in the households of the "workers."

Not that the little fellows at the Orphan's Home aren't well fed and well clothed and well schooled. The institution looks after that, and does it well.

But the "Work Day" gives the people who have the better things of life a great chance to help those who live on the "downy side." Not your children—no, but children; Georgia children, just the same. And that's the main point.

Home Needs Money.

Here's another point: Money. The Home is needing some help to do its full duty to those little Georgia boys and little Georgia girls. And the Home needs money, and needs it now.

The Home has a host of friends in Georgia. The Baptists of Georgia are known outside of Georgia for their support of their needy people, especially the children. The friends of the Home at Hapeville need only to learn of its need; the rest will be done promptly and well. That is the belief of the good people having charge of the Home. That is the trust of the children of the Home.

Read this little letter, written by a small girl at the Home recently to a friend of the Home:

"Dear Index—Here comes a little girl with brown eyes into your happy band of friends. This is my second letter to the Index, and I will tell you about the Orphan's Home in which I live."

"I have three large brick buildings, a baby house, and a large boys' house. We have a pretty farm, and music and cows. I go to Sunday school every day in the week. We have about 250 in the Home, and I am like to stay here for ever. We have a good time. I am nine years old and in the Fourth Grade. I like my mother, and she loves me very much. My mother is living, but my papa is dead. This is my home and I am happy here."

With love to everyone, I am your little girl,

"LITTLE GREENWATER."

It isn't strange that the Baptists of Georgia and Georgia people of all denominations—should take it to heart that those little people from the downy side should have "their home, and all it means to them, and to Georgia."

Not very strange—is it?

TAMMANY FIGHT HOT TO END; 4-1 ON FUSION

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—John Purroy Mitchell, the Fusion candidate for Mayor, became a four-to-one favorite in the betting on the curb at noon today over Edward E. McCall, Tammany candidate. This is the first time in the history of New York that odds on a Majority election have reached that figure.

The campaign will have a whirlwind finish tonight. More than 30 meetings are scheduled before the fusion and Democratic spellbinders cease their work. This is the first time that the fight ever has been carried on so energetically to the last minute.

The betting today showed John Purroy Mitchell, fusion candidate, established as a 3-to-1 favorite over Edward E. McCall, the Democratic standard bearer.

It is estimated that $250,000 has been bet on the election. Only during the early days of the campaign were the wagers made at even money, since William Sulzer and his investigator, John A. Hennessy, projected themselves into the situation. Mitchell men have steadily gained confidence. Sulzer predicted his election to the Assembly today, and the odds on his election were 100 to 1.

How To Be Happy Though a Farmer Told by Uncle Sam

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—The Department of Agriculture, in sending a series of letters to farmers' wives, has become a correspondence school, with courses in "How to make a farmer's life and a farmer's wife happy."

Secretary Houston is so encouraged by the interest of the farm women that he is thinking of establishing a rural sanitation section and perhaps a home economic branch.

The principal plan of the women has been for rural sanitation and piped water in the farmhouses.

Others ask for instruction in the domestic arts. Loans to raise mortgages are among other requests, while others for defense, requests for motor trucks and better mechanical equipment are found here and there.

Stork, With 10-lb. Girl Visits Blanche Bates

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—A "perfect wonder" of a girl baby, weight ten pounds, has been born to Blanche Bates, the actress, otherwise Mrs. George Crest, in her country home at the old Bailey farm at Osthorn.

A TRIED AND PROVED GUARANTEE

Men Bought a Bottle of Dabson's Liver Tonic, Then Took It Back and Asked for His Money and Got It.

A man recently tried out the guarantee of a girl baby, weight ten pounds, has been born to Blanche Bates, the actress, otherwise Mrs. George Crest, in her country home at the old Bailey farm at Osthorn.

Although there was some uncertainty because Mrs. Crest was hurt in a runaway accident only a few weeks ago, mother and child are doing well.

This drugist just reached into his cash register to look out a bill for the price of the bottle of Dabson's Liver Tonic, and he found it was not there.

He owned up that he was not trying the guarantee, and, as a matter of fact, he had found Dabson's Liver Tonic the best remedy for liver ailments and biliousness he had ever tried.

The Queerest Nurse in the World

This picture is not of a trick or circus elephant, but one of the Bronx Zoo, New York City, that fell ill the other day. Poor Mr. Elephant, who is only a baby, was so poorly that he couldn't eat a thing. He fasted for so long that his keeper became alarmed and consulted with several elephant doctors (if there are any such things) as to what was best to do. Various experiments were tried with the result, as shown in the picture, that the elephant finally took to the bottle--milk only. Within a few days the bottle diet restored the baby elephant's strength and today he is as lively as a cricket. Great credit for the elephant's recovery must be given to the keeper who acted as nurse continuously to his charge. That the elephant appreciates this is shown by the manner in which he follows his keeper wherever the keeper goes.

It was in a suburban town near London, and the good minister had taken his class of boys on a little picnic out in the country.

Each one was supplied with a box of fruit and sandwiches, and as they sat down for a picturesque spot to enjoy their afternoon repast, the minister asked:

"Now, boys, think of the best and most appropriate time to thank the Lord."

One of the boys, a little red-headed chap, promptly answered:

"Now, the Lord."

TO-DAY'S INSTALLMENT.

"COME to my chambers," muttered the youngest of the trio. "We are both to discuss such things here. It is your fault, Greiner. Why did you drop this bombshell on me so unexpectedly? You confounded actors are always looking out for a curtain. You look me up as an agent on your chums in a crowded bar."

"Now, my dear Langdon, do be reasonable. How could I tell that the mere name of Philip Anson would create a stir? You look me up as an agent on your chums in a crowded bar."

"Indeed, his words were justified. Mr. James 'Cricket' Langdon was corporate in his words. He was a man who had just been sentenced to be hanged, and his old pal Hunter seems to have suddenly gone mad."

"You are wrong, then," said Langdon, with a horrible attempt to smile indifferently.

"No, no. There are too many eyes here that we should have with the air of a set of stage murderers. Get down. Let us have a nip of brandy. Talk about racing and that style but not a little while and then go out quietly."

"Greiner was right. A detective had already noted an acquaintance and whispered: 'The Anson seems to be upset. And one of the hawks is in a rare temper. I'll keep an eye on that collection.'"

He watched them through a mirror. He saw Greiner exert himself to pass a companion in a better humor. When they went out he followed, and ascertained from the constabulary at the door that they had gone toward Shaftesbury avenue.

By walking rapidly he sighted them again, and saw them turn into a doorway.

"Greiner's chambers!" he said. "What a splendid nerve that fellow has! Reports himself coolly at Scotland Yard every night and in style not but a mile away. How does he manage it? I must make some inquiry about the matter."

Certainly the methods of the superior detective of London are peculiar. Greiner knew that he was a marked man in the eyes of the police. He knew the particular reason for his being marked was the fact that he was a detective officer of the metropolitan force.

"He is a detective officer of the metropolitan force," he said. "He is a detective officer of the metropolitan force."

HOW MUCH YOU ARE WORTH AND WHAT YOU ARE MADE OF.

Illustration of a man and a woman, with text: "THERE ARE POSSIBLY A TEASPOONFUL OF SUGAR AND A PINCH OF SALT IN EACH ONE OF US. ENOUGH ALBUMEN FOR 10 TIMES THIS NUMBER OF EGGS (100). OF THE IRON THERE IS HARDLY ENOUGH TO MAKE A NAIL AN INCH LONG. THERE IS SUFFICIENT LIME TO WHITENASH A PRETTY GOOD-SIZED CHICKEN HOUSE. THERE IS ENOUGH MAGNESIUM TO MAKE A PRETTY FIREWORK. FAT. HIS FAT IS WORTH 10-1. THE PHOSPHORUS WOULD BE SUFFICIENT TO PUT HEADS ON 11 TIMES THE QUANTITY OF MATCHES. 'What a piece of work is man!' and he has been reduced to his essentials. A German has worked it out. A 160-pound human being is worth about $100—that is, in terms of his constituent elements. 'His fat is worth $250; of the iron there is hardly enough to make a nail an inch long. There is sufficient lime to whitewash a pretty good-sized chicken house. The phosphorus would be sufficient to put heads on 2200 matches, and there is enough magnesium to make a pretty firework. The average human body contains enough albumen for one hundred eggs. There are possibly a teaspoonful of sugar and a pinch of salt. Of such material is our clay compounded, plus—the unknown quantity.'"

A Bachelor's Diary

By MAX

OCT. 18.—The heart specialist has come and gone, and Dr. Gray looked me over profoundly, and talked to each other wisely, and advised me.

Then they took the nurse aside, and talked to her in solemn tones, but if they thought that this mysterious convalescence was their business, they were mistaken. I am quite ready to go at any time. My only fear would be for Manette, but with Richarda and Sally Spinner, I am sure there is no reason why my future should have more to do with his future than his.

OCT. 19.—There is no truant in the world so great as the man whose heart is as unbreakable. "We must let him be unbreakable. We must let him be unbreakable. We must let him be unbreakable."

"I liked the manner in which the pretty little nurse seemed to enjoy the luxury of it, but I liked more than that her prior consideration of me. It was not ill she had seen that I was comfortable that she settled down in quietude of the ride. She enjoyed it so much that a ride has become part of her daily program; sometimes with me and sometimes without me, but no matter who or with whom she goes, she no longer wears her salvation Army clothes."

I kept my word, and Richarda has selected her clothes with an appreciative regard of what is best suited to her color and her hair without taking any long consideration, and Manette talks with Richarda. I don't want the child to become a snob, and that is what the private schools make a business of turning out. The private schools, however, are a refuge for dove-tailed children, who can't keep abreast of those of their age, and Manette is not that kind.

Tomkins waits at the school gates every school is dismissed and, rain or shine, no matter what the weather. The journey to and from school must be made on foot. Her little classmate may catch glimpses of her reds around town. Her little classmate may catch glimpses of her reds around town. Her little classmate may catch glimpses of her reds around town.

And her school clothes! For once I had my way. The dainty little garments from Paris may be put on when she reaches home, but she wears common little cotton gowns to school like those worn by the children of our butcher. I want her to always know that her wealth and station are mere accidents, and that it is possible to be happy without either.

Diary, a letter from Sally Spinner, in Paris, which has caused me to spend most of the day in reflection. She has left a decision with me, forgetting that man is noble enough to decide any question honorably in which his own happiness is involved.

M. M. Each little detail are largely a matter of taste, but is a better form to give the bride the precedence. Is it not her great day?

PERHAPS NOT. Dear Miss Fairfax: I am deeply in love with a young man two years my senior. I am 17. Will you please tell me if I am too young to keep company with him? P. H.

Some girls of 17 are still babies and others are women grown. So, doubt you are old enough to keep company with him so long as marriage is kept few or six years in the future.

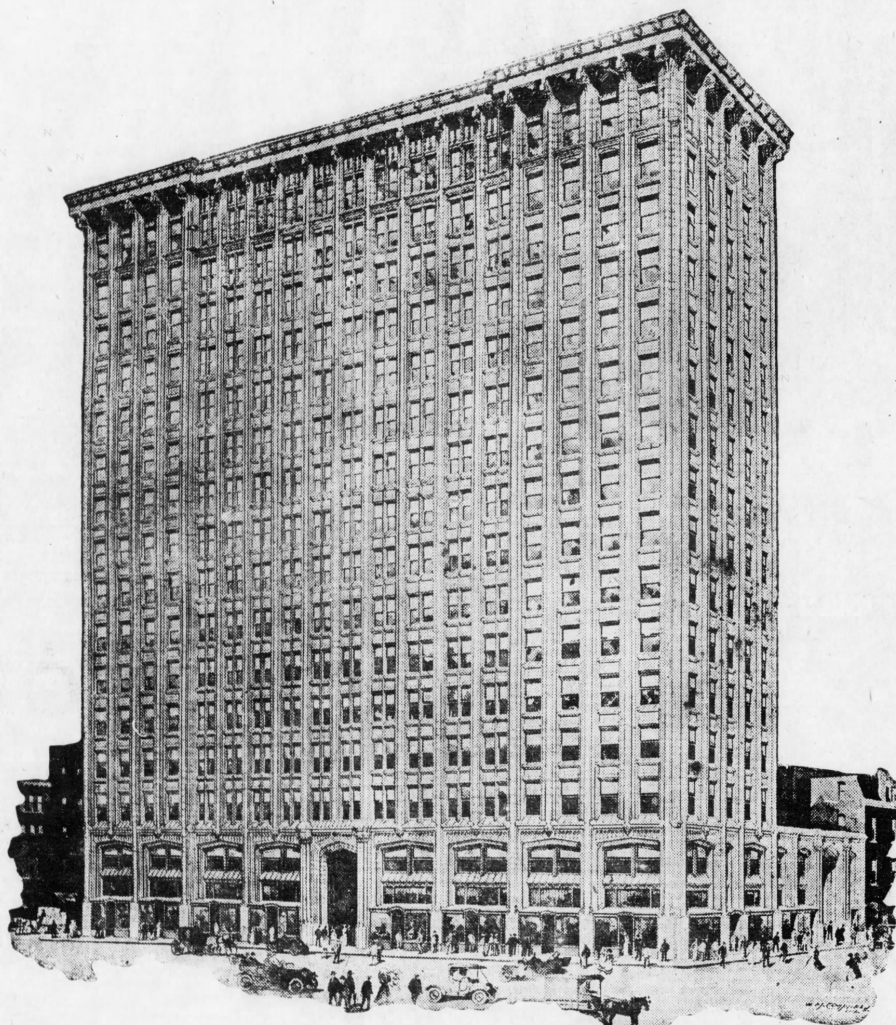

CHICHESTER'S PILLS. I have been suffering from indigestion for some time. I have tried everything, but nothing seems to help. I have heard of Chichester's Pills, and I have bought a box. I have taken a few, and I feel much better. I have heard of Chichester's Pills, and I have bought a box. I have taken a few, and I feel much better.

W. T. DOWNING.

THE HEALEY BUILDING, Corner Walton and Forsyth Streets

The installation of CENTRAL STATION ELECTRIC SERVICE in the Healey Building, that magnificent new business edifice now nearing completion at the corner of Walton and Forsyth streets, is still another unquestionable proof of the ECONOMY and the EFFICIENCY of this method of furnishing light and power for business enterprises.

The president of the Healey Real Estate and Improvement Company, Mr. W. T. Healey, together with the architects of the building, Messrs. Morgan & Dillon and Mr. W. T. Downing, carefully considered every other method of obtaining light and power for the big structure before they decided upon CENTRAL STATION ELECTRIC SERVICE of the Georgia Railway and Power Company. They compared the estimates made by those who were desirous of installing a private plant in the building with the estimates furnished on the service by this company, and they did not hesitate in giving their decision in favor of our service. In this decision they were influenced by no other reasons than the ECONOMY and the EFFICIENCY of this service as compared with other methods.

THE PRICES NAMED IN THE CONTRACT FOR THIS SERVICE ARE THE STANDARD PRICES WHICH ANY OTHER ENTERPRISE OF THIS CHARACTER AND SIZE MAY OBTAIN.

One Man Killed, Others Hurt, in Exciting Chase of Frenzied Animals in Streets.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—A tragedy of the wild West with all its attendant thrills was staged in the streets of this city. One man was shot to death and several were injured when a stampede of wild steers broke loose and raced through the streets, throwing autos into panic.

The terror was increased by pursuing policemen, charging the steers in a headlong rush, and shouting to kill the frenzied animals. More than one hundred shots were fired before the chase ended, and one of the stray bullets hit and killed George Beattie, a watchman. Some of the animals were shot down and others were trapped and taken back to the stockyards, but several still roam in the city, and the city police force is searching for them.

Steers Charge Automobile.—The steers were being transferred from a car in which they came to a car in which they were to be taken to West 21st street, they were frightened by the rumbling of the cars and stampeded.

Near Central Park several of the steers saw a red automobile and they charged the machine. The impact of several pairs of horns on the machine on its side, and it was hurled through the air and landed in the street.

At this juncture Policeman Kelly rushed along. One of the steers saw him coming, and charged him. Kelly stepped out of the way, and as several of the steers followed the lead of the one which charged him, he was struck by one of Kelly's bullets landed in the left boiler of the steers.

An instant later, another policeman rushed to the scene and began to pump bullets at the animals, which turned and ran in different directions.

One of their bullets struck Beattie in the eye. He dropped dead. Another bullet shot him in the leg, and he was carried to the hospital.

Heavy Trade in Dry Goods During Week

Manhattan Field & Co. in their weekly review of the dry goods trade, say: "The goods trade during the week has been heavier than that of any corresponding period in the last three years. The volume of orders placed by retailers, through traveling representatives shows a substantial gain over the business of the previous week and of the same week a year ago. Buyers are dividing their attention about equally between buying requirements and present demands."

Many customers have visited the market, but current shipments show a substantial gain in comparison with those of the last week in October, 1912. The month closed with practically all buyers indicating more satisfactory results than in the previous week.

LETTERS REVEAL YOUNG PAIR'S TRAGEDY

By and Youthful Bride Had Planned Double Death With Utmost Calm.

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 2.—The complete story of the tragic romance of James A. By, a young medical student of Atlanta, Pa., and his twenty-year-old bride, Rose Herring By, whose bodies were found in the woods near Northfield, was revealed today in five weather-stained letters picked up near the spot where the corpses lay.

The writing at places could hardly be deciphered, but the legible portions showed that the self-slain young couple were remarkably calm in their death pact.

The notes showed that the couple had secretly married August 26 because of the opposition of the girl's mother to the match, the marriage certificate was destroyed. Young By had been suffering for some time with a mental ailment which threatened to grow worse, and so the young husband and his bride had decided to end it all with death "as the easiest way out." The notes were signed "James and Rose," and they showed that the double suicide had been planned for a long time.

By's father arrived to-day and tool-egures of the funeral arrangements, Mrs. By and Mrs. Herring the two mothers, are under the care of physicians.

MACON IN FIGHT TO CLOSE ALL SALOONS

Injunction Suits Filed Against Every Dealer—Law Enforcement
League Moves Against 34.

MACON, Nov. 2.—Before night every saloon in Macon will be defendants in injunction proceedings brought by the Law Enforcement League. The petitions for injunction, with the temporary restraining order granted by Judge Mathews, of the Bibb Superior Court, are in the possession of Sheriff Hicks and are now being served.

When the Sheriff finishes serving the injunctions and contempt rules secured today in the Superior Court by the Law Enforcement League, there will not be an open saloon in Macon. In fact, there will be only four places where drinks will be obtained—the Elks, O.E.S., Ladies and Chess clubs—and each of these requires membership.

Supplementing the 34 injunctions previously obtained, the Law Enforcement League today filed petitions for 34 more, and also brought to the attention of the court information that twelve saloons had violated during the last two weeks. The whisky was produced as evidence. Judge Mathews issued contempt rules against these twelve men, who will probably go to jail as notice was given by the judge six weeks ago that this would be the penalty of all who violated the terms of the injunction. These are set for hearing on November 15. Orders closing each of the 34 saloons.

Atlanta's Auburn Alumni Prepare to 'Root' at Tech Game

Alumni of Auburn in Atlanta are planning the organization of a corps of hasty rooters to do service Saturday when Auburn's football team plays Georgia Tech in Ponce de Leon Park. To that end Dr. F. J. Spaulding, one of the leading Auburn men in Atlanta, Monday called a meeting of the alumni for Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock, at the University Club.

"We earnestly desire the attendance of every able-bodied, hasty, leather-legged man who claims an interest in Auburn," the call announced. "It is likely that some arrangements will be made by which a number of the alumni's one of the features of last Saturday's game between Tech and Auburn will be the effective rooting of the Tech supporters, which the Auburn men will try to equal at the coming game."

Accidents Pursue This Man in Selma

SELMA, Ala., Nov. 2.—VIII Vaughan, a well known citizen, is in a hospital unconscious for twelve hours from a fractured skull and internal injuries sustained in alighting from a moving street car on Water street.

Physicians say that he will not recover in a short time.

Rooms enjoyed to-day until the date for the hearing of their respective cases were granted by Judge Mathews. Many of the saloon proprietors have not waited to be served with the injunctions of contempt rules, but have closed their places and nailed up the doors.

The Grand Jury organized to-day and was charged by Judge Mathews to return indictments against these saloonmen who have been enjoined and who have been shown to be guilty of selling liquor. It is expected that the officers of the Law Enforcement League will be called upon by the Grand Jury for evidence of which sales against the saloons and clubs.

GIRL SHOTS AT BURGLAR WHO SHOT DOCTOR

Robber Takes to Heels When Young Woman Greets Entrance
With Pistol Fire.

Police Monday were hunting for the daring burglar who engaged in a duel with Dr. Edgar Hawley, well-known physician, and is believed to be the same man who later attempted to enter the home of Miss Randall, pretty next-door neighbor of the physician.

Miss Howell, who lives at No. 41 Orme street, was awakened by the sound of someone trying to open the shutters of her bedroom window. She listened quietly, and as the attempt continued she took her revolver from beneath her pillow and opened fire.

"I just wanted to kill a robber, and I missed him," she said. "I was in my room when I heard a noise. I listened for a few minutes. Someone was trying to open the window. I got a gun and pointed it into the darkness, where I thought the robber was standing."

"I guess I missed him all right, but if one comes back I'll be looking for him. I'll shoot him dead."

Miss Howell is a bookkeeper for the manufacturing company of J. A. Point.

The police, while declaring that the same burglar who had entered the home of Dr. Hawley Saturday night, also had entered the home of Miss Howell. In the fight with Dr. Hawley the robber was wounded. It is believed, although not proven, that he was believed he had been wounded.

The physician and the burglar exchanged shots, and Dr. Hawley received a flesh wound. The burglar dropped his gun and the two men engaged in a desperate hand-to-hand fight. The chief finally set away. "My wounds are not serious," said Dr. Hawley Monday, "and am thankful that I shall not be even forced to remain indoors. I am sure that I could identify the intruder if I should ever see him again. He was completely built and of swarthy complexion. He was not a negro."

An investigation later revealed that the burglar had been seen around one of the glass panels in the drug store and had been seen to enter when the policeman came upon him.

Decaturites to Hold Meeting on Charter
A mass meeting will be held at the Decatur courthouse Monday night at which the new charter will be discussed.

The amendments to the city charter were adopted by the recent Legislature, but opposition has been shown by the Mayor and City Council on the ground that it takes the control of the police department and City Council of Construction out of the hands of the Mayor and Council, and that it provides for their election by the people, and also fixes their salaries.

TRUST BROUGHT MILLIONS INTO AMERICA

Harvester Company, Pleading Its Defense, Recites Benefits
It Has Accomplished.

ST. PAUL, Nov. 2.—That the International Harvester Company, by reason of its organization, has expanded its foreign business from $100,000 in 1907 to $10,000,000 in 1912, and "has brought back to this country $100,000,000, largely expended for American labor and materials," is one of the defenses set up in the company's brief filed in the United States Court here today in answer to the Government's brief in its dissolution suit against the so-called Harvester Trust, which was also filed today.

The Government charges that the company controls 90 per cent of the business in the United States. The International Harvester Company, in replying through its counsel, declares that not a single competitor had been forced to the wall or its trade diminished.

The contention of the defense is that the International Harvester Company was not organized to create a monopoly, but to secure capital necessary to invade the foreign field. The brief asserts that none of the ordinary results of monopoly have followed the organization of the International Harvester Company. "No unreasonable prices, no reduction of wages, no overcapitalization, no excessive profits, no oppressive trade measures, no limit closed, no limitation of production, no control of raw materials, no interference of quality," it says.

Detail of the Government's charges that the company gained unfair advantage over its rivals through influence with railroads, which granted switching accommodations, is made also in its assertion that "anyone may freely copy, as two competitors have done, the main features of its blades and mowers."

The brief asks that the court rule whether or not the Government may legally diminish the dissolution suit against the International Harvester Company that the Attorney General wrote the Government's brief himself.

Catoosa Stops Fight On Government Road

DALTON, Nov. 2.—An injunction suit to restrain Catoosa County from collecting the special tax levied to finance that county's part of a Government highway from Chattanooga to Atlanta will be withdrawn. The injunction was refused in Superior Court, but was sent to the Supreme Court on a writ of error. The court will not, however, be called upon to decide it.

This leaves only the obstacle to the highway in Gordon County, and citizens of that county are making a strong fight to carry a bond election for $100,000, which he held this month.

Hats made of the hammers and tin snips were used by the guests at a wedding at Hatfield, the other day to form an archway for the bride and bridesmaids to pass under as they left the church. The bridegroom, Mr. Frederick, was in a direct metal worker and the tin snips, running in shape from the steel-crowned tin to the "topper," were worn by the guests with much to be said for the hats of the Queen as a gift.

The Amateur Dentist

A COMPLETE SHORT STORY

LAFRITTE, a young fellow of more than average reputation, thanked the dentist, who had just finished his work.

"How much do I owe you?" he asked, taking from his pocket a coin.

"Five cents," the dentist replied.

Lafritte handed the coin to the dentist, who examined it very carefully, dropped it on the table and said, "That is a counterfeit."

Lafritte looked pale as well as surprised as the dentist handed him back the coin.

"I am sorry," he said. "It is all the money I have with me, but I am sure it is not a counterfeit. I have just taken it from my pocket."

"I will pay for the two teeth," the dentist said.

"Better not come to-morrow, my friend," said the dentist. "It is Sunday, and I spend all my Sundays in the country, with my family, so you will find nobody here. My train leaves in an hour."

"Thank you very much for telling me," said Lafritte. "Then I will come on Monday, An revoir."

"No, he won't be in to-morrow," thought Lafritte. "Then I may come back here without being afraid of anything."

ought to know. You are not supposed to break into other people's houses in that way.

"I know, but please don't send me away again. I am in great pain."

"Well, let us see what I can do for you, then," said Lafritte, who was perfectly calm. "I don't see why the counterpane did not tell you that I am supposed to be away, or at least that I never work on Sundays."

"To tell you the truth, I did not take the trouble to ask the counterpane. I told you, I am in great pain, and as I saw from your sign that your office is on the fifth floor, I just walked up here. It is just an extraction I want, and it won't take but a few minutes."

"Well, just sit down in the chair," the dentist said.

The patient did as he was told, and opened his mouth and pointed to a badly decayed tooth.

Lafritte shook his head.

"It is going to hurt you quite a bit," he said.

"Little," he said, "so I should advise you to let me use an anesthetic."

"Oh, all means," said the patient, turning quite pale.

Lafritte opened the medicine cabinet and without any trouble found a bottle labeled "chloroform." Then he poured some on the mat that was hanging in front of the patient's nose and mouth and a moment later his victim was unconscious.

"Now for the extraction," said Lafritte, with a smile, and from the counterpane's pocket he took first a pocket-book, and then a wallet, emptied them and then took back the counterpane's contents, which amounted to two hundred and forty francs, and he did not overlook watch and chain.

HE WAS GOODBY.

Politely saluting the unconscious man, he said:

"Goodbye, old boy. I am sure you will feel greatly relieved when you wake up. No more bad teeth for you."

And he left.

TO-DAY'S INSTALLMENT.

"COME to my chambers," muttered the youngest of the trio. "We are looking out for a certain man. You should not try the experiment of your party on a crowded bar."

"Now, my dear Langdon, do be reasonable. How could I tell that the mere name of Philip Anson would create a scene? You look as sick as a man who has just been sentenced to be hanged, and my old pal Hunter seems to have suddenly gone mad."

Indeed, his words were justified. Mr. James "Iron" Hunter was a corpulent man in a tuxedo, and Hunter, though his tongue was still, bore a grimace. Hunter was a man of almost beyond control.

"Come away, then," said Langdon, with a hurried attempt to smile indifferently.

"No, no. There are too many eyes here that we should have with the air of a set of stage murderers. Sit down. Let us have a nip of brandy. Talk about racing, women, anything for a while and then get to sleep."

Grier was right. A detective had already begun an acquaintance and was waiting.

"The pigeon seems to be upset. And one of the hawkers is in a rage tomorrow. I'll keep an eye on that collection."

He watched them through a mirror. He saw Grier enter himself to put his commission in a better position. When they went out he followed, and ascertained from the constabulary at the door that they had gone toward Shaftesbury avenue.

By walking rapidly he sighted them again, and saw them turn into a doorway.

"Grier's chambers," he said. "What a splendid nerve the police have! They have taken a room at Shaftesbury every month, and lives in style half a mile away. How can he manage it? I must make some inquiry about it."

There are possibly a TEASPOONFUL OF SUGAR AND A PINCH OF SALT.

OF THE IRON THERE IS HARDLY ENOUGH TO MAKE A NAIL AN INCH LONG.

ENOUGH ALBUMEN FOR 10 TIMES THIS NUMBER OF EGGS.

THIS IS THE HOUSE JACK-BUILT.

THERE IS SUFFICIENT LIME TO WHITEWASH A PRETTY GOOD-SIZED CHICKEN HOUSE.

THERE IS ENOUGH MAGNESIUM TO MAKE A PRETTY FIREWORK.

FAT.

THE PHOSPHORUS WOULD BE SUFFICIENT TO PUT HEADS ON 11 TIMES THIS QUANTITY OF MATCHES (2200).

HIS FAT IS WORTH 10 1/2 C.

"What a nice work of man!" and he has been reduced to his essentials. A German has worked it out. A 150-pound human being is worth about $5.50 in terms of his constituent elements. "His fat is worth $2.50; of the iron there is hardly enough to make a nail an inch long. There is sufficient lime to whitewash a pretty good-sized chicken house."

The phosphorus would be sufficient to put heads on 2,200 matches, and there is enough magnesium to make a pretty firework. The average human body contains enough albumen for one hundred eggs. There are possibly a teaspoonful of sugar and a pinch of salt. Of such material is our clay compounded, plus--the unknown quantity.

A Bachelor's Diary

By MAX

ON the 18th the heart specialist has come and gone, and Dr. Gray came and went with him. They looked me over profoundly, and advised me to go to town yesterday.

Then they took the nurse aside, and talked to her in solemn tones; but if they thought that this mysterious case worried me they were mistaken. I am quite ready to go at any time. My only fear would be for Manette, but with Richards and Sally Spencer to bolster her there is no reason why her future should have more than the usual clouds in it. She is provided for every one I know and love is provided for, said, diary, I am very tired.

It is a tired heart; that is the whole trouble. It is not weak, as they think; it is tired.

On the 11th--There is no tyrant in the world so great as the man whose heart may at any moment go back on him.

"Oh!" his workmate said when he was unreasonable. "We must let him have his way. His heart is weak!"

"It won't do to cross him too much," his business associate grumbled. "One less we want to have a dead man on our hands."

A woman is even a greater tyrant. I once knew a woman whose heart used to skip a beat about every ten years or so, but she made so much of her skipped heart that her father was kept poor letting her have her way, and her husband cultivated to meet her demands for money and finally killed himself.

And she outlived two more husbands.

The manner in which I had my own regard of what is best suited to her color and her hair without taking any note of the cost.

I have put Manette in the public-house. The decision was not without long consideration, and many talks with Richards. I don't want the child to become a snob, and that is what the private schools make a business of turning out. The private schools, moreover, are a refuge for slave-brained children, who can't keep abreast of those of their age, and Manette is not that kind.

Tomkins waits at the school gates when school is dismissed and, rain or shine, no matter what the weather. The journey to and from school must be made in the rain, and Manette must catch glimpses of her riding around town in a limousine with her horse at her side, but they will never see it except by accident.

And her school clothes? For once I had my way. The dainty little garments from Paris may be put on when she reaches home, but she wears common little cotton gowns to school like those worn by the children of our butcher. I want her to always know that her wealth and station are more accidents, and that it is possible to be happy without either.

On the 16th--There came to me today, Harry, a letter from Sally Spencer. In Paris, which has caused me to spend much time in reflection. She has left a decision with me, forgetting that she is in Paris enough to decide on a question honorably in which his own suspicion is involved.

CHILDREN'S LIVES ARE SAVED

Mrs. A. L. McClendon, who resides at 175 Kelly Street, and is the Mother of Three Children, Aged Respectively Six Years, Ten years and Thirteen Years.

All of them have been in very poor health for the past two or three years. They seemed to be in a weak, run-down condition, had no appetite, and were unable to play their natural games. I was at last obliged to give up the idea of their growing up, and I was at last obliged to give up the idea of their growing up.

The mother went home, commenced giving it to the children and in a few days the children were all well. The mother went home, commenced giving it to the children and in a few days the children were all well.

CAMBRIDGE, MASS., Nov. 3.—True bull, the Harvard varsity center sustained a serious bruise of his side Saturday's game with Cornell, who will keep him out of the frame next week.

Eddie Mahan, the halfback, who has been confined to the infirmary on account of a spider bite on his foot, had a slight operation performed on the injured foot last night. It is doubtful whether he will be in condition to play Saturday against the Tigers.

The widening and regrading of West Peachtree and the widening and lighting of Peachtree street will make the white way are expected to stimulate real estate values greatly. Already the neighborhood is showing a new outlook as a good prospect for the developers of next year.

Many of the new utilities will also pull a good deal of money west of Peachtree. Old prices no longer obtain on Spring street. The future is bright for the business district. The viaduct to be built across the river to the Terminal Station. Then the proposed extension of the street car line to Brookwood has excited property owners. Real estate men say that the new business district will be the logical street to work out for the relief of congestion on Peachtree.

Other sections are being improved. The new bridge across the river has given promise yet like the section from Peachtree west to Spring street.

The Senate Should Carefully Consider Mr. Vanderlip's Progressive and Practical Currency Plan

The Senate should make no hasty decision in the matter of the Currency bill.

There are two distinct plans now before Congress, one involving a system of "regional" banks and the other a Government central bank, with branches. If we embark on the one we can not change to the other without difficulty and disturbance. It is important to select the right plan.

A good deal can be said in favor of the Administration's plan for "regional" banks, but the plan for a Government central bank, advanced by Mr. Frank A. Vanderlip, is not to be dismissed as unworthy of serious consideration. The fact that it is advanced at this moment by a leading financier with large Wall Street interests should not prejudice the Senate against any of the really valuable points of this plan. It was not originated by Mr. Vanderlip. The idea of a central Government bank has been expressed by the radical thought of this country for many years.

As far back as 1892 we find the Populist party—founded on the powerful Grangers and Farmers' Alliance—groping at this idea in their Omaha platform. But clearly and emphatically we find it expressed in the first national platform of the Independence party, then representing forty-four States and two Territories, adopted at Chicago in 1898, and reading:

"The Independence party declares that the right to issue money is inherent in the Government, AND IT FAVORS THE ESTABLISHMENT OF A CENTRAL GOVERNMENT BANK through which the money so issued shall be put into general circulation."

Moreover, the idea has found practical expression and actual operation in other countries. The Bank of France embodies this idea; also the Reichsbank of Germany. So the idea is by no means altogether theoretical and certainly not essentially reactionary.

It is possible that the interests of which Mr. Vanderlip is a leading representative may not be altogether pleased with the Vanderlip plan. By their public utterances it may be found that they are not. Mr. Vanderlip, however, was asked by the Senate to submit what he believed to be the best possible plan of currency reform, and being an American citizen, probably had enough pride and enough patriotism to respond sincerely to this suggestion, and to submit a plan which he honestly believed to be the best one for the country as a whole.

At any rate, Mr. Vanderlip's plan seems to be in accordance with the general sentiments of Wall Street. Furthermore, Mr. Vanderlip's plan is in accord with the actual experience of other countries.

Therefore, the Georgian urges the Senate of the United States to consider this plan carefully, to consider it not as a product of Mr. Vanderlip's mind and associations, but as a concrete expression of the plan for which through many years there has been agitation by the radicals of this country.

The Georgian urges the Senate to investigate the operation of somewhat similar plans in France and Germany. We can not lightly assume that a plan which in the main is successful abroad might not be successful here. The objection made that the business to be conducted here is so much greater than the business to be conducted abroad as to make the plan unfeasible here is not a sound objection. Americans are accustomed to doing business on a much larger scale than it is done abroad. They would have no difficulty in extending and adapting the principle, if it is a correct principle, to the larger business of this country.

The Vanderlip plan seems to be most practical and progressive. It is a more radical plan than the Administration plan. Yet it is not so much of an experiment. A plan like Mr. Vanderlip's has been the popular ideal, and the people should not abandon their ideal simply because it has received the indorsement of a great banker, who advances a plan as the best possible one and a most practical one for the whole country.

A SHATTERED IDOL

By WILLIAM F. KIRK.

In his arm he carried muscles
 Larger than old-fashioned buttes,
 And his neck was like a column made of steel;
 Not a field he couldn't smash through,
 Not a line he couldn't smash through,
 He was such an awe-inspiring mass of steel.

This tremendous football hero
 Held all rival teams to zero.
 So his comrades worshipped madly at his shrine,
 Now that they had broken training
 And as long as it was raining.
 They were sitting at McBerry's dining wine.

Suddenly there was a shakedown;
 Perci said: "Let's smash the place up!"
 Follow me, boys, and we'll do it, never fear!"
 Then the boys, all neatly dressed,
 Followed up their idol shattered.
 As he lit upon the car track on his ear.

When you see a gentle waiter
 Bringing you a cold porter,
 Pause and think of all the rights that he has;
 Think of his weary thought of fighting
 The bull and the bear and the pig.
 On the car track where the football hero lit.

A Big Part of the World's Work

By REV. C. F. AKED, D. D.

In the October issue of that very fine review, "The World's Work," there is an article entitled "The Business of Christianizing the World." The article is in itself "worldly," but the really striking thing is that it appears, not in a missionary magazine, but in "The World's Work." One needs a minute or two in which to take in some of the implications of this fact. But there is no escaping the conclusion. The business of Christianizing the nations of the earth is now a part of the world's work! It is not a bid. It is not an amiable weakness on the part of gushing simpletons. It is not a diversion for the idle leisure of maiden ladies of a certain age with more money than sense. It is not even an legitimate outlet for Christian enthusiasm too exalted for this worldly life of ours. In the business of other magazine editors and publishers who are not in the editing and publishing business "for their health," missionary enterprise is a substantial part of the world's work.

Times Have Changed.

Times have changed since the best that Charles Dickens could do to help on the "business of Christianizing the world" was to represent Mrs. Jellyby, "who carried the world in her eye," as intent upon supplying flannel petticoats to the Hottentots and moral pocket handkerchiefs to the native populace of Barbadoes. That one wonders what Dickens would have said of a "business" whose success enables this "World's Work" writer to report that it was a missionary who first explored Africa and gave the first impulse toward the development and enlightenment of that great dark continent. A missionary headed the first complete ascent of Mount McKinley. An American missionary manufactured the first set of movable types for the Chinese, thereby making possible the development of the Chinese newspaper. The Jurchens came from the inventive genius of another. More than twenty-five years ago the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions was able to fill a large book of 569 pages with a record of the contributions of missionaries to science.

When Tennyson published his "Locksley Hall Sixty Years After" a intemperate person fastened upon one descriptive line. "There the empyrean fire of fever comes across the royal floor," and demanded that Lord Tennyson give him the address, for he was quite certain that the medical missionaries would soon be creeping after him. He was right!

It is impossible to give the utilization of the automobile—"the options of modern civilization." He pictures for Dr. Kate Scudder, out in Southern India, "a fine sight can hardly be imagined than Dr. Scudder returning from one of her medical trips, her footstool car, fitted up as a dispensary, loaded down with the garlands of grateful patients who has ministered to along the road."

REV. C. F. AKED, D.D.

San Francisco, or the religious part of it, is to take a hand in this business of Christianizing the world in 1921. It is probable that a great building, approved by the exposition management, will be erected on the fair grounds by the Christian organizations of the country. Here will be arranged exhibits, showing in massive proportions and splendid detail the progress of this great "business."

The Evolution of Man

Science Believes That He and the Anthropoid Apes Had a Common Ancestor.

By GARRETT P. SERVISS.

I am taking the liberty of asking you if you will kindly write something about Evolution. I would like to know what proof or ground is there for the belief in Evolution of Man. C. H.

In answering this question I can find no lack of space, go no further back than the fork in the road where the earliest representatives of the human family are believed to have parted company from the earlier representatives of the family of the anthropoids (manlike apes) such as the gorilla, the chimpanzee and the gibbon.

Up to that point there had been, in the world, neither apes nor men, but there had been a mammalian animal that existed in its young, which was to become the common ancestor of both of them. That animal has now disappeared. It constitutes the famous "missing link." Search has, from time to time, been made for possible remains of it, but without any certain success. The nearest approach to the "missing link," thus far, is furnished by the creature called Pithecanthropus erectus (erect ape man), some remains of which were found in Java in 1894.

Earliest Man-Animal.

This animal was more manlike than apes, but it possessed sufficient resemblance to both types to lead men to believe in its regard to it as a specimen of man as he was before he had progressed very far in his evolution. He and his life relative struck out into their diverging roads of evolution. Huxley has given in the earliest man-animal, after his separation from the original common trunk, the same status (apehood), because he thinks that the first man did not possess a true lineage.

As to the proof of these statements about the evolutionary origin of man, the ARBOREOUS PROOF would be furnished by the discovery of undoubted remains of the "missing link," together with remains of intermediate types leading toward the modern man. In the other, may never be obtained, and that for the following reason:

The separation of the human and the ape size type occurred relatively in the geological history of the earth. It is generally believed to have happened in the tertiary period, some 100,000 years ago. A few hundred thousand years ago the surface of the earth had assumed very much the character which it possesses to-day.

They Preferred Death.

They meet her at designated points, as at a bridge, or under a large tree, and it is an unusual day when she has not treated one hundred cases and brought back several patients to her excellent hospital at Yellow. And to go back to the writer in "The World's Work." In 1909 there was tragic testimony to the success of foreign missionary work in China, for during the Boxer outrages more than thirty thousand Christian converts chose to be killed rather than deny their faith.

Forget the Evil.

The gentleman isn't interested so much in beauty, excellence, order, harmony, progress, success as he is in false standards. Not only will he not be satisfied with one false standard, but he asks for three.

I hope he does not consult me as an expert.

My correspondent has simply forgotten that we live in an age that is essentially affirmative. There is no use dwelling on the evil. Forget the evil. Let it be swallowed up in the good.

Detectives looking for evil are in danger in time of taking on the character of criminals.

There was a time, perhaps, when false standards were common, but they were not universal, otherwise business could not have been carried on at all.

In medicine, however, you will find that the study of the abnormal prevails. Pick up any medical journal—of which there are about forty published in America—and you will find that the diseased, the abnormal, the monstrous, the peculiar, the unusual, the toxic afford a theme for both artists and artists.

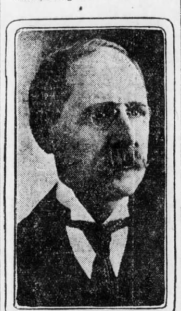

In school teaching we have had studies of the abnormal. The defectives have been given great space, and specialists assigned to look after their needs.

A Bad Order Blank.

But one of the distinctive signs of the times is a bulletin sent out from the United States Bureau of Education, giving memoranda to all the States in reference to the public schools of New Orleans to give to the pupils who are exceptional.

And the word "exceptional"

That being the case, the remains of animals and especially of animals like men and apes, would not be preserved so perfectly as were those of earlier creatures which, living in or on the shores

GARRETT P. SERVISS.

of shallow seas, were buried in deposits of mud and fine sand, and subsequently, while the waters withdrew, or the land was elevated, were transformed into layers of rock. It is for this reason that the remains of many of the very earliest inhabitants of the globe, creatures of comparatively simple organization, are among the most abundant and best preserved, while those of the later land animals are comparatively rare and imperfect, except where they have been more exposed to destructive influences.

What Huxley Says.

But, while the direct proof mentioned may never be obtained, there is proof of another order even more conclusive. This is of two kinds. First, the structural resemblances between man and the anthropoid apes are so numerous and striking that there seems to be no other reasonable explanation of them than a community of origin. I have not space to go into details, but Huxley has summed up the case in a single sentence: "For the skull no less than for the skeleton in general the proposition holds good, that the differences between man and the apes are of smaller value than those between the gorilla and some other apes."

Building the Ideal.

The problem in teaching school is to control the parent. There are useful social workers delegated to get information from the parents as to the conditions under which the child has been reared. The whole purpose is to study the apparently exceptional child and find out why he is strong and well, happy and cheerful and helpful, and progressive—a joy to his teacher and a joy to his parents.

So it will be seen that the latter of this most excellent plan is to fix the attention of teachers, school directors and parents on the exceptional, and to fill their minds with the idea, if possible, to the end that these conditions that enfold the exceptional child may be repeated.

But the experience so far, in New Orleans, shows that parents are co-operating with the teachers. And you must have the hearty co-operation of the parents in the matter of school teaching and school tests if you would succeed.

EXPERT OPINION
HAS PRaise FOR
TECH BACKFIELDCook, Press and Patten All Looked Good in Saturday's Game Against Seawee.

By Innis Brown.

Refer to Tech's backfield. The Yellow Jackets left several hard and fast yards in the tail of the Seawee Tiers at Grant Field Saturday afternoon.

Plugging from the standpoint of the proper way to play the gridiron game, it may be stated that Tech put on a full-on game, while at times the Seawee showed flashes of real form, form such as must have been exhibited in Dallas when they laid the heavy Texas to a margin of one touchdown.

The Tech team had all the drive that could be asked. They seemed to enter their attack on Seawee's left flank, and results were registered to Seawee's hopes. Time and time again Cook, Press and Patten, and others smashed into the left wing of the Tiers, and almost without fail, the results were satisfactory. These players were the offensive stars of Saturday's game.

Line Interference Great.

Purposely, the Seawee continued to show real ability to interfere for their runners. Their interference was of that type that put the other fellow out of commission. It was temporary. Frequently the Tech backs managed to burst as many as three times at the Seawee ends, instead of piling up in such a way as to keep the Seawee from getting any yardage. In fact, the backs were so good in such a manner as to send one particular man after the other. This was understood that he was expected to block, and to block effectively. This he usually did.

Particularly, the Tech team continued its successful work with the forward pass. Several long shots were successfully executed, resulting directly in touchdowns on two occasions. The backs were very good in such a manner as to send one particular man after the other. This was understood that he was expected to block, and to block effectively. This he usually did.

Heisman's Football Axioms
Coach Gives Tips to Youngsters

By J. W. Heisman.

THE following is a list of football principles, or "axioms," as I call them, which I use each year in breaking in the new players, which should prove of some use to the younger boys who have no coach.

1. Don't lose your head.
2. Don't fumble the ball.

"Oh, My Kingdom for a Brick!"

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Ritchie's friends who saw him at work yesterday said that the lightweight champion was a little worried over the outcome of the fight with Louie Brown because of the fact that he had shown this pattern in bouts with William Rivers and Kitchie in training more for speed than for power. He admits that Kitchie is better equipped for a ten-round fight than he is, but he has been traveling so much that he is not in the best of condition.

THE OTHER SIDE.

It was an ancient football star who read a sporting sheet.

And laughter shook his carcass from his forehead in his feet.

"Why laugh so hard?" I asked him.

He did not answer me.

He could not catch his breath because he was so full of gloe.

I smiled long and patiently and finally he spoke.

And his shouts of gloe he put me to sleep.

"This paper" here he laughed again, "it almost died."

"It says that modern football is a brutal game," he cried.

"When I was in the game," he cried, "but here he has his breath."

And later on I learned that he had laughed himself to death.

White Elephant Love Feast.

The banquet turned out to be a ver-speech took occasion to laud John J. G. "the greatest of the great," and to otherwise praise him for having "made a name for himself." He also made Mack himself famous, and said:

"Carmie Mack is one of those rare men who are not only successful in his defeated opponents. He sympathizes with the underdog and is strong enough to accord his rivals all the respect that is due."

Not that the Giant had a whole lot to say about Mack. He said only that there was Carmie found out and spoke the truth.

Surprise to Quakers.

When the Quakers of the Quaker City met last night at the Metropolitan to have some of the Quakers of the Quaker City make a speech at the banquet for the Giant's friends, they were surprised to find that the Quakers of the Quaker City were as big as some of the Quakers of the Quaker City.

Qakerikewin peace and a New York Giants game. There has been heretofore nothing said in Philadelphia about McGraw and his players. McGraw is a well-known aggressiveness and exuberance. McGraw is a well-known described as rowdiness, pugilistic, and a little bit of a trouble maker. It is something that Philadelphia fans can connect in their brains while in the three or four hours during the game. McGraw was only last summer that McGraw and his players were followed by a mob of people who were shouting and screaming from the bull park to the detriment of the game. It is therefore quite a pleasure as well as a new and unexpected development that some of the players are going to be in the game. The Athletics got their best advertisement when McGraw mentioned that the present world's champions had been defeated by a team of players from the Athletics.
